Tell me about a time you made a mistake

Freshers:

During a college project, I once assumed a requirement instead of confirming it, which caused rework. I learned to clarify expectations before starting. Since then, I focus more on accuracy and communication before execution.

Experienced:

In one of my earlier projects, I underestimated the time required for a task which impacted the timeline. I immediately communicated with stakeholders, revised the plan, and completed it successfully. That experience taught me better estimation and proactive communication.

What are your strengths?

Freshers:

My strengths are quick learning, discipline, and responsibility. Once I take up a task, I focus on understanding it properly and completing it on time. I also stay calm and try to find solutions instead of panicking.

Experienced:

My strengths include ownership, problem-solving, and communication. I can handle responsibilities independently, coordinate smoothly with stakeholders, and deliver outcomes with quality. I also adapt quickly to new systems and work environments.

What is your weakness?

Freshers:

Earlier, I used to feel nervous while speaking in formal situations. But I've been improving by practicing communication, participating in presentations, and working on confidence. Now I'm much more comfortable and improving every day.

Experienced:

I sometimes take extra time to perfect my work, especially when I want the output to be error free. But I've learned to balance quality with timelines by prioritizing tasks and setting clear deadlines.
